- This document consists of 28 pages. Any blank pages are indicated.

Option 1: Homer *The Odyssey

Answer two questions from Section A and one question from Section B.

Section A

Answer any two questions; you must answer all parts of the questions you choose.

EITHER

- 1 Read the following passage from The Odyssey and answer the questions which follow:

Odysseus asks Nausicaa for help.

'And it is with just the same wonder and veneration that I look at you, my lady, and I dare not clasp your knees, though my sufferings are serious enough. Only yesterday, after nineteen days, I made my escape from the wine-dark sea. It took all that time for the waves and the tempestuous winds to carry me here from the island of Ogygia. And now some god has flung me on this shore, no doubt to suffer more disasters here. For I have no hope that my troubles will come to an end: the gods have plenty in store for me before that can be. Pity me, princess.'

In the blackness of the tenth night the gods washed me ashore on Ogygia, the home of Calypso, that formidable goddess with the beautiful locks. She took me in and looked after me with loving care. She offered me immortality and eternal youth. But never for a moment did she win my heart. Seven whole years I stayed, soaking with my tears the imperishable clothes Calypso gave me.

'Before she had run very far, a howling wind suddenly sprang up from the West and hit us with hurricane force. The squall snapped both forestays simultaneously. As the mast toppled, all the rigging tumbled into the hold, and the mast itself, reaching the stern, struck the helmsman on the head and smashed in all the bones of his skull. He plunged like a diver from the deck, and his brave soul left his body. Then at one and the same moment Zeus thundered and struck the vessel with lightning. The whole ship reeled from the blow of his bolt and was filled with the smell of sulphur. My men were flung overboard and round the black hull they floated like sea-gulls on the waves. There was no homecoming for them: the god saw to that.'

- 6 Read the following passage from Metamorphoses and answer the questions which follow:

Ovid describes the Silver Age.

When Saturn was cast into murky Tartarus, Jupiter

seized

the throne of the universe. Now there followed the age of silver,

meaner than gold but higher in value than tawny

bronze.

Gentle spring was no longer allowed to continue

unbroken;

the king of the gods divided the year into four new

10

seasons:

summer, changeable autumn, winter and only a short

spring.

The sky for the first time burned and glowed with a dry

white heat,

and the blasts of the wild winds froze the rain into hanging

15

icicles.

People now took shelter in houses; their homes hitherto

had been caves, dense thickets of brushwood fastened together with bark.

For the first time also the corn was sown in long ploughed

20

furrows,

and oxen groaned beneath the weight of the heavy yoke.

- 7 Read the following passage from Metamorphoses and answer the questions which follow:

With that he turned distractedly back to his own reflection;
 his tears were troubling the limpid waters and blurring the picture that showed in the ruffled pool. When he saw it fast disappearing, 'Don't hurry away, please stay! You cannot desert me so cruelly.
 I love you!' he shouted. 'Please, if I'm not able to touch you,
 I must be allowed to see you, to feed my unhappy passion!' 10
 In wild distress he ripped the top of his tunic aside and bared his breast to the blows he rained with his milk-white hand.
 His fist brought up a crimson weal on his naked torso, like apples tinted both white and red, or a multi-coloured cluster of grapes just ripening into a blushing purple. 15
 Once the water had cleared again and he saw what his hand had done, the boy could bear it no longer. As yellow wax melts in a gentle flame, or the frost on a winter morning thaws in the rays of the sunshine, so Narcissus faded away and melted, slowly consumed by the fire inside him. 20

- 8 Read the following passage from Metamorphoses and answer the questions which follow:

Daedalus tells his son how to fly.

As he gave his pupil his flying orders, he fitted the wings on the boy's inexperienced shoulders; 5
and while he did it the old man's cheeks were wet with his tears
and his hands were trembling in fatherly fear. Then kissing the lips
of his darling son for the very last time, he rose on his wings
and flew in front, as afraid for the lad as a bird 10
escort
her fledgeling out of the mountain nest to float on the breezes.
'Follow!' he cried, as he taught him the skills that would prove his downfall. 15 Moving his own two wings, he kept looking back at his son's.
