FIG. 1A EXTRACT ABOUT MINGULAY

Mingulay is an uninhabited island off the north west coast of Scotland. The last residents left in 1912 when they found that they were unable to make a living in the harsh conditions. The ruined village is slowly being engulfed by the advancing sand dunes. The bay, from which the sands are blowing, provides the only landing place. It is sheltered enough in calm weather but provides no protection when the wind is from the east. The gentle eastern slopes of the island are in marked contrast to the dramatic cliffs to the west – black, jagged and battered by some of the worst storms in Scotland.

The National Trust for Scotland has owned the island since 2000. It is currently used for grazing sheep and the cliffs have become very popular with rock climbers. It is well known for its seabirds, including puffins, kittiwakes, and razorbills. They nest in the cliffs, which are amongst the highest in the British Isles.

POEM A

I decide to take a walk across the desert
As it seems so welcoming
With the sand dunes all around
The sand seems to flow like a river,
My feet sink into the sand,
Leaving big footprints,
But when I turn back I see no foot prints in the sand
For it's gone with the wind.

I see nomads approaching,
I stand by to watch them
When they see me they give me a smile
Their camels are laden with goods to be traded
Across the borders that join the deserts and the cities.

FIG. 2B

POEM B

Skin falls victim to the desert's curses
thirst is like a lover in a cell
camels plod along like heavy hearses
where in all this wasteland is the well?

Star maps fail and leave us there to ponder nights of ice come mocking with their frost
cut the camels free and let them wander tracks and sand are one - and we are lost.

Blisters on our hands and on our faces
Sun God takes offence and shows his ire wander in a circle - no oasis roasted by the never-ending fire.

Which poem better describes the hot desert as an extreme environment? Explain your choice.

JUNE 28

We woke up to light rain and sleet, though the weather was improving. As we set off we were impressed by the size of the place and by the difficulty of the terrain. We sank in above our knees in the soft snow. The snow was very wet and walking was hard. By afternoon the clouds had gone and the sky was blue. Snow melt caused by the sun brought avalanches and rock falls.

JUNE 29

In the morning we set off up the glacier with the aim of getting as far as the next glacier. Walking was easier because much of the glacier was dry although our route was crossed by streams, which slowed us down.

Polar and mountain areas are challenging for people. Identify THREE challenges faced by people in this expedition.
