Globalisation—An unstoppable force?

The world is used to McDonald's selling hamburgers in Moscow, Beijing and Karachi and Sony televisions having a place in homes across the world.

Markets are now more global and many multinational companies are richer and more powerful than some small countries.

It is not just the multinationals that have benefited from globalisation. Instant information and communication have allowed people in Guyana to market handmade hammocks through the Internet. The remote Pitcairn Islanders sell their handicrafts across the world.

While many have gained from the communications explosion, there are also many losers.

- Half the world's population does not have access to the Internet or the skills they need to take part in this new economic world.
- In more traditional societies, globalisation threatens people's culture and religion.
- In industrialized countries, many people feel threatened because their jobs may be moved overseas.

The backlash is very real. After the last international trade talks, thousands of demonstrators caused major disruptions. They were made up of trade unions, environmentalists and human rights protestors who all questioned further globalisation.

Universal Declaration of Human Rights

Freedom of Thought. We all have the right to believe in what we want to believe, to have a religion, or to change it if we want.

France votes for veil ban

While many people oppose banning face-covering Islamic veils, most western Europeans questioned in a new global poll say the garments should be forbidden—especially in France, where a ban may soon be a reality.

Several European countries have been considering bans on such veils.

A survey found that 82% of French respondents support a ban. The poll found 71% support in Germany, 62% in Britain and 59% in Spain.

The French government has insisted it supports multiculturalism and that the bill is not about religion but has called it a way to promote equality between the sexes, to protect oppressed women and to ensure security in public places.

(a) Using the data from Source C, which are the two largest religious belief groups in the world?

- A Hinduism
- B Atheist
- C Islam
- D Christianity
- E Judaism
- F Sikhism

(b) Religion is often an important factor in people's identities.

Answer EITHER question 4(a) OR question 4(b).

If you answer question 4(a), place a cross in this box.

4 (a) 'Sport and cultural activities divide rather than unite people'

Do you agree with this view?

In your answer you should consider:

- Ways in which culture and sport unite or divide communities
- Whether cultural activities help people to understand each other
- Do sporting activities cause conflict?

If you answer question 4(b), place a cross in this box.

(b) 'Democracy is the best way of governing a country'

Do you agree with this view?

In your answer you should consider:

- What are the other ways that countries are run?
- Does everyone take part in a democracy?
- Does democracy always lead to increased individual wellbeing?
- Does democracy always lead to a sustainable economy?

General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the first candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the last.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- There is no ceiling on achievement. All marks on the mark scheme should be used appropriately.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, ie if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification may be limited.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, the team leader must be consulted.
- Crossed out work should be marked UNLESS the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.
