Paper 3

SG

November 2004

General Guidelines:

It is important to remember that examiners are assessing the ability to communicate in writing.

When an essay is too long, markers are expected to mark the full essay. No penalty is considered, candidates will penalise themselves by becoming repetitive and therefore will be penalised for content. Indicate at the bottom: "Essay too long".

In most cases the grid can be used to penalise essays that are too short.

The essay should be assessed in the usual way before the word penalty is applied.

Essays:

100 to 150 words - no higher than F

50 to 100 - no higher than G

Fewer than 50 words - no higher than H

Indicate at the bottom: "Essay too short"

To obtain an A+, A or B and 1 and 2 the writing should be excellent, the candidate has used imagery and idiomatic expressions extensively.

To obtain an H and 8 and 9 the writing should be so poor that you could barely read it or understand it and no mention was made of the topic at all.

Be objective and allow room for the candidate's background. Read the topic from the candidate's point of view e.g. childhood memories.

Please indicate all errors by using symbols (e.g. sp etc) clearly. Refrain from underlining only.

Indicate striking ideas with ticks.

Section A
